Muscle contraction is the activation of tension-generating sites within muscle fibers. In physiology, muscle contraction does not necessarily mean muscle shortening because muscle tension can be produced without changes in muscle length such as holding a heavy book or a dumbbell at the same position. The termination of muscle contraction is followed by muscle relaxation, which is a return of ...

Smooth muscle is an involuntary non-striated muscle. It is divided into two subgroups; the single-unit (unitary) and multiunit smooth muscle. Within single-unit cells, the whole bundle or sheet contracts as a syncytium.. Smooth muscle cells are found in the walls of hollow organs, including the stomach, intestines, urinary bladder and uterus, and in the walls of passageways, such as the ...

Mammalian skeletal muscles are comprised of several fiber types, of which the major classifications and biochemical properties have been reviewed in greater detail elsewhere (Schiaffino and Reggiani, 2011). Skeletal muscle fibers are defined as slow- or fast-twitch based on the contractile property of time-to-peak tension or twitch characteristics ( ).

Aging induces physiological changes in skeletal muscle, including defective mitochondrial energetics, atrophy, loss of strength and power, and insulin resistance. Exercise training is a potent countermeasure to improve glucoregulation by increasing skeletal muscle insulin sensitivity and mitochondrial respiratory capacity and warding off aging muscle atrophy.
